MOUNT SAINT VINCENT UNIVERSITY

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA

A BACKWARD GLANCE

Mount Saint Vincent Academy was established by the Sisters of Charity in 1873 as both an elementary and secondary school. By 1914 Halifax had grown substantially and along with it came the demand for more post-secondary institutions. As a result, the Mount entered into a 25-year agreement with Dalhousie University whereby the Mount offered the first two years of a bachelor degree and Dalhousie offered the final two years. The degree was then granted by Dalhousie.

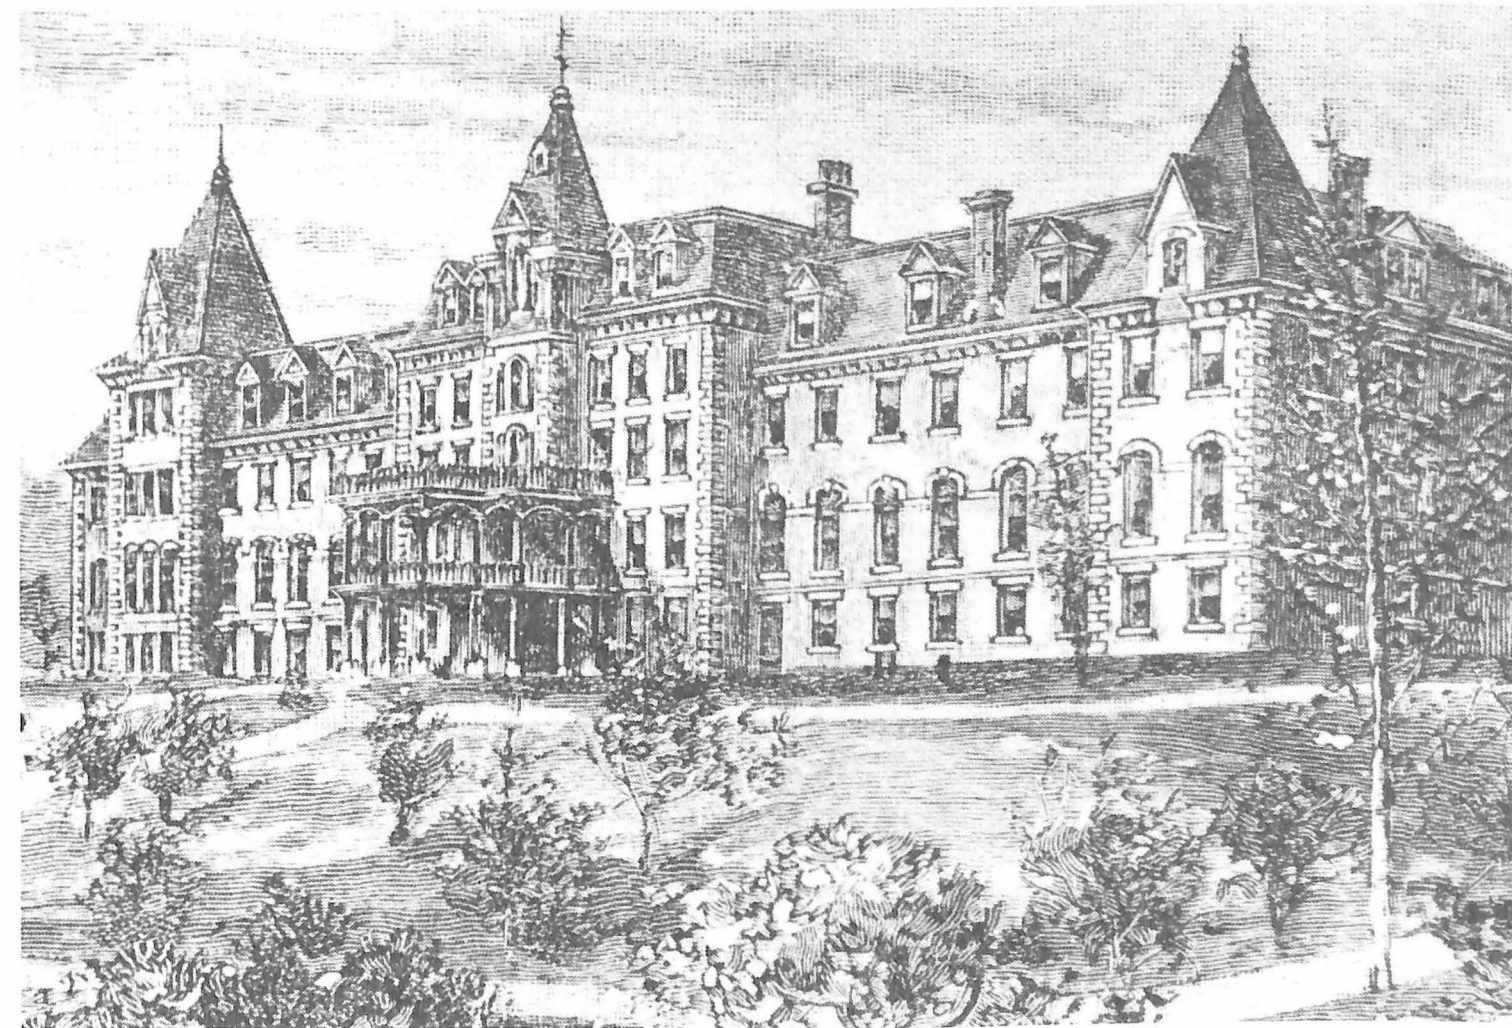

The Nova Scotia legislature awarded Mount Saint Vincent with a college charter in May, 1925. M.S.V.C. was then able to grant its own degrees in the arts, science, and music.

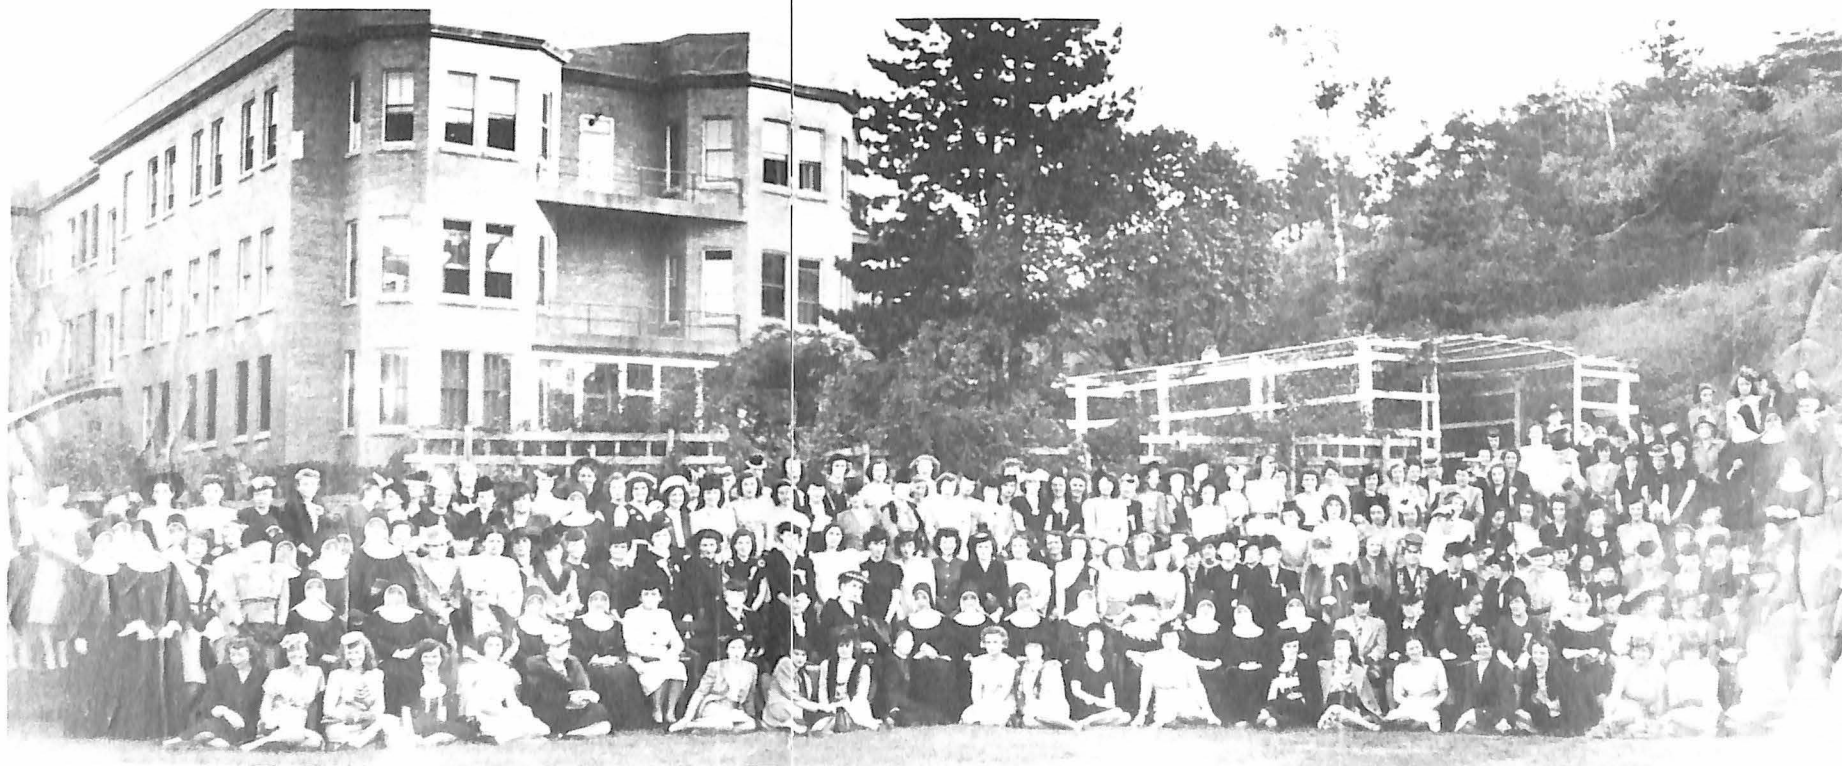

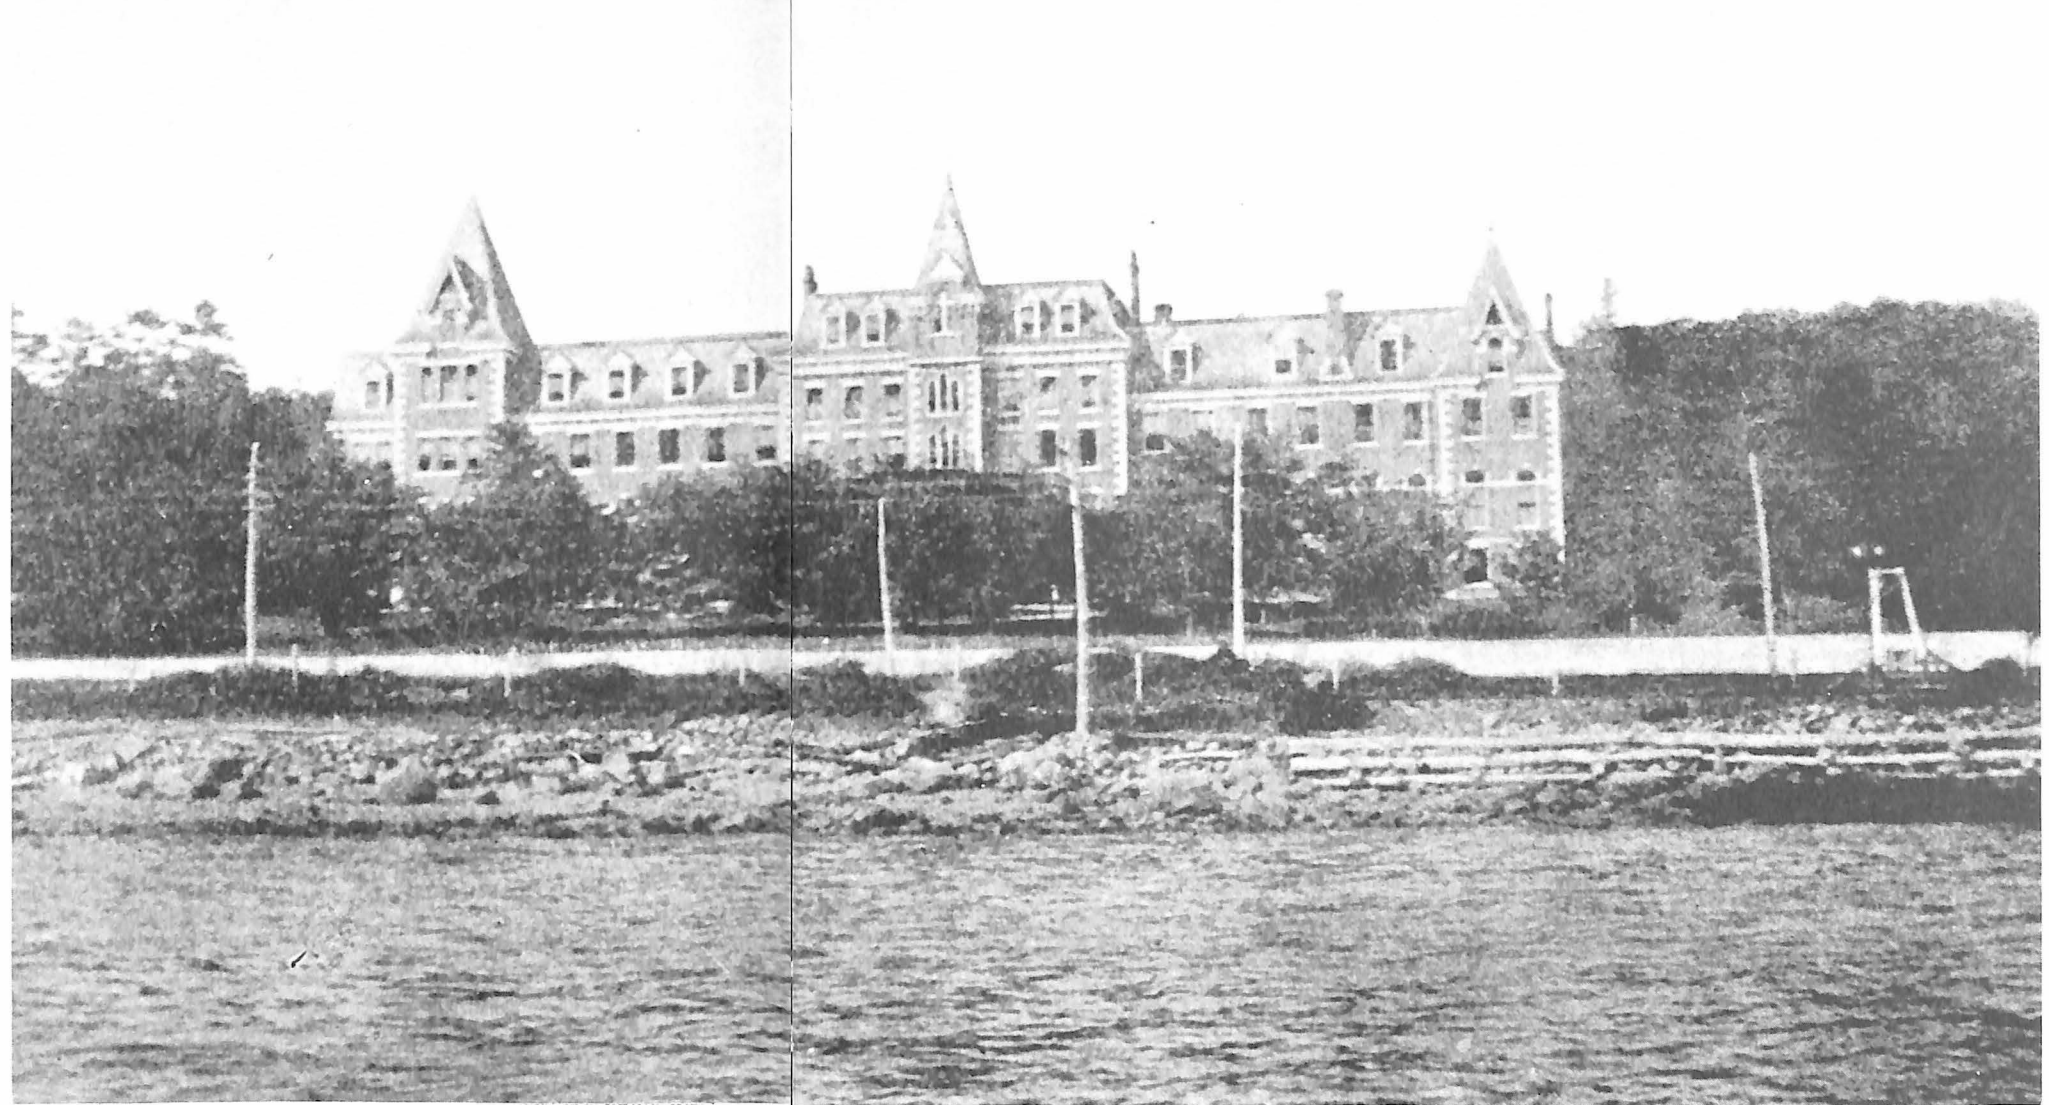

On January 31, 1951 the entire College complex including the Motherhouse was destroyed by fire. In keeping with its resilient nature the Mount was still able to accept its traditional influx of September students that same year. The new building, Evaristus Hall, was the beginning of the growth that followed.

In 1966 the college charter underwent a revision which renamed the College Mount Saint Vincent University. Also, in that year Assisi Hall and Rosaria Hall were added. Seton Academic Centre was opened in 1971, boasting classrooms, offices, an Art Gallery, and a 1000-seat theatre in the round. A new five-year agreement between Dalhousie and the Mount, on an association-as-equals basis was signed admitting undergraduate men for the first time.

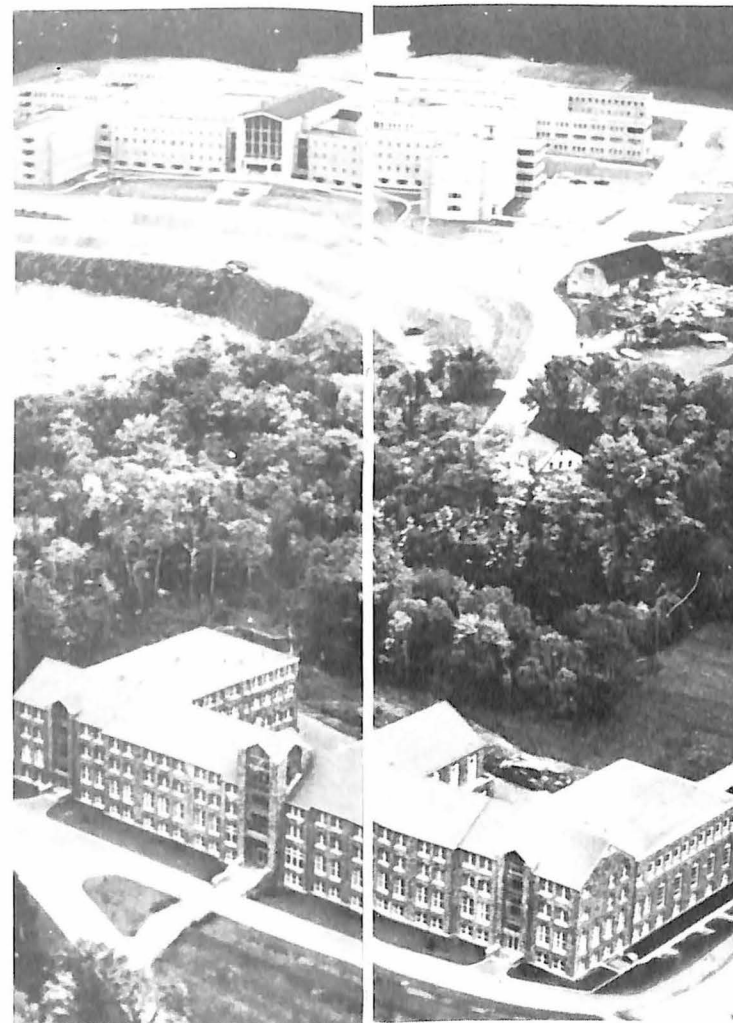

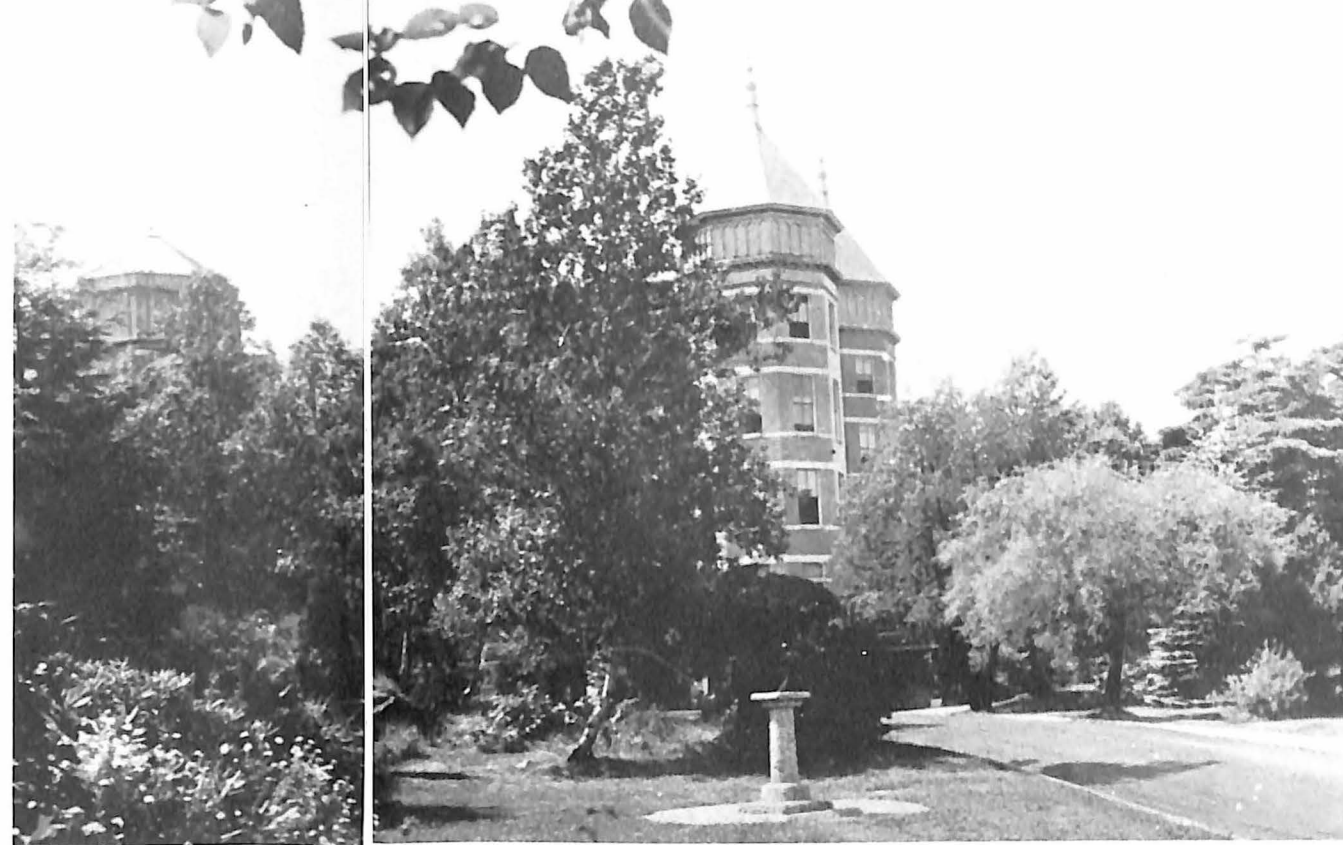

The Birches, five townhouse residences, were built in 1972, and Rosaria Centre was officially opened on March 14, 1981.

Office of the President

May, 1988

To the Members of the 1988 Graduating Class

Graduation is a significant turning point for most of us. It's a time that seems appropriate for taking stock of the past and thinking about what might lie ahead. It's especially important, though, to take time to be clear about what you think about yourself right now, before you imagine what the future might hold for you.

Graduates of the Mount in 1988 are expected to begin assuming responsibilities for the ideas and changes that will become the realities of 2028. For many of you, the greater part of your lifespan will be lived after the turn of this century. You are the citizens who will be shaping our world in the twenty-first century.

It is certainly important that you see yourselves as doers and makers, actively engaged in all life brings. It is even more important that you see yourselves in relation to others and to the world around you. In making choices for yourselves you inevitably affect the lives of others. While you may take justifiable pride in your own achievements and in your abilities to exercise leadership, to attain the highest and best in life for all, you are called to use your talents responsibly in relation to other people and to your Creator.

As you graduate from the Mount we expect you to be women and men prepared to participate with others in the enormous task of transforming your own society by daring to transform your own attitudes and practices so that worldwide there will be equality and peace and freedom from hunger and want.

With my sincerest best wishes for success.

Dear Graduates,

Congratulations! You have successfully completed a tremendous personal challenge. Although some of you may question what it all means, there is one thing that you can be certain of, that being the friendships and frustrations from MSVU.

Many, many, many (and then some) hours have been occupied in the production of this book. A big thank-you to the photographers (listed on back page), Cheryl MacKenzie for your help with layouts, Robert Holden for your help with the graduate section, publisher's representative Bonnie Billings, secretaries Tanya Davison and Jennifer Weltz for your typing and patience while deciphering my handwriting, and to Lisa Chippett and Keith Campbell for your financial advice.

Enjoy the book!

Sincerely,

Moira McDermott

COAT OF ARMS

The Coat of Arms of the University is based on the Coat of Arms of Venerable Elizabeth Seton, foundress of the Congregation of the Sisters of Charity. It bears three silver crescents within the "treasure." The same "treasure" is found on the Coat of Arms granted to Nova Scotia in 1625, so the Community Foundress and the Province are represented. The three peaks on the shield signify the name of the University, "Mount" Saint Vincent. The book, a symbol of learning, is positioned between two maple leaves - the emblem of Canada. Above the book is a dove, symbolizing the Holy Spirit, and indicating that knowledge is only a means to Wisdom, the highest gift of God.

The colors of the shield are blue and gold. Gold symbolizes the divinity of our Lord and blue is for our Blessed Lady. The periphery of the Coat of Arms is royal blue and azure, the dual blues of Mount Saint Vincent University.

YEARBOOK HISTORY

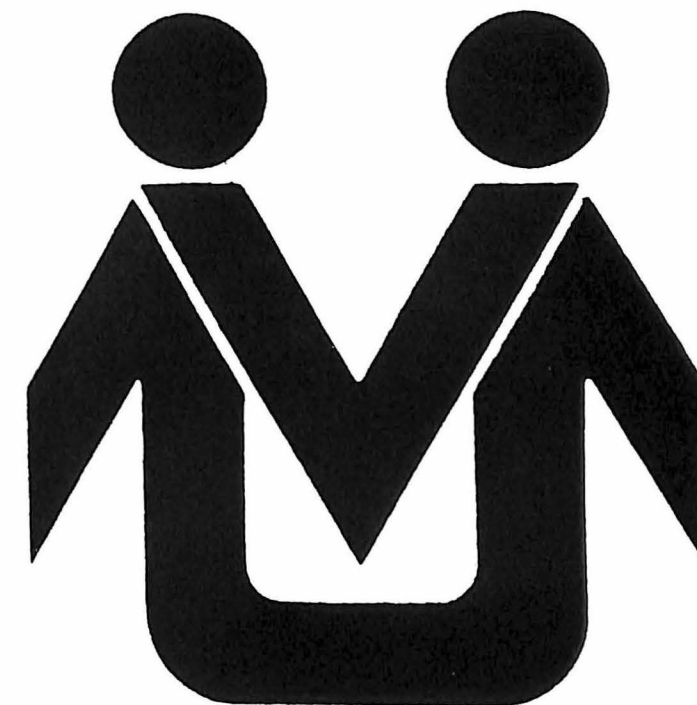

Just as Mount Saint Vincent University has grown and changed so has the appearance, content, and name of the yearbooks produced to commemorate each passing year.

Names of past volumes have included: Kappa Kronicle, Phoenix, Memories, and Katina. The present title, Janus, has only been used since 1976, but its relevance should assure it a long life on the cover of the book of memories of our years at Mount Saint Vincent university.

Janus was the Roman God of beginnings, openings, entrances, doorways; of public gates through which roads passed and of private doors. Being the God of Gates, he was naturally the God of departures, returns, and by extension, the God of all means of communication.

As a yearbook then, Janus represents a departure from the university, as we achieve our goal of graduation, and also a means of returning to it, through memories captured in the words and photos found here. We look to the Janus insignia as a symbol of our progression to the future, and the many thresholds we have yet to cross, and as a symbol of those doors through which we have already passed gaining confidence, wisdom, and pride.

UNIVERSITY LOGO

The design of a new symbol, to represent the University along with the Heraldic Crest, was approved in January 1971.

The symbol, created by Eagles and Radcliffe Ltd., skillfully combines the letters "M", "V", and "U" to provide a distinctive pattern that is visually appealing and easily remembered. The addition of two circles above this pattern immediately adds warmth and the awareness that the symbol portrays as well.

This, it was felt, was the essence of a university; young people, alert people who are working together towards common objectives.

UNIVERSITY MOTTO

Veritas Ad Deum Ducit is translated as "Truth Leads to God". It is only one of the many aspects of M.S.V.U. that poses greater meaning for those who can appreciate its origin. The motto asserts the religious concerns which inspired the foundation of the University.

TOWARDS THE FUTURE

Graduates of the year 2000 assisted N.S. Premier John Buchanan in the sod-turning ceremony for the E. Margaret Fulton Communications Center. The completed structure will be comparable in size to Eaton's at the Halifax Shopping Center. The Center will house a library, computer center, audio/visual department and television studios.

STUDENTS SPEAKING OUT!

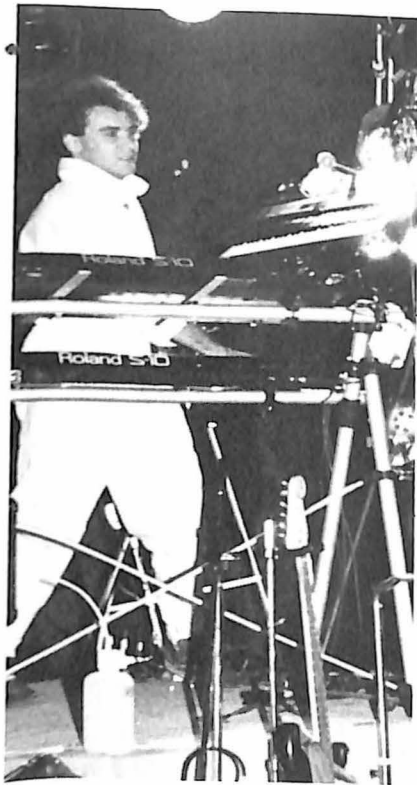

In January, the Mount hosted the Nova Scotia Forum on post-secondary education "under"-funding. The events were sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Students and the Students' Union of Nova Scotia. Students participated by wearing black armbands while attending events. After the forum, Kraft Dinner and grape juice were served at a reception. Campuses across Canada hosted similar events.

VALEDICTORIAN

REVEREND CHANCELLOR

MADAM PRESIDENT

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

FELLOW GRADUATES

PARENTS

AND FRIENDS

It is both an honor and a pleasure for me to have been chosen to deliver this afternoon's valedictory address. I would like to thank my fellow graduates for bestowing this privilege on me.

Look at us now! Have you ever wondered just how much we have changed? How far we have come? When asked to deliver this address, I was forced to consider these questions. I had to reflect upon my four years of university life here at Mount Saint Vincent, to understand how my experiences have led me to who I am and to what graduation represents for me today. Through my process of reflection, I uncovered many pleasant, and many not so pleasant memories, which are common to us all -- whether we are full-time or part-time students. These memories include our struggles to survive registration; our feelings of despair and loneliness during our first few weeks at the Mount; the endless list of papers, projects, readings, and exams; the social activities; and, of course, the fun we have had in the "big city". These are only a sample of the hundreds of memories we all can share.

However, there is one memory that I have not mentioned, a memory which will hopefully endure and prosper for many years to come. It entails the establishment of the special friendships--friendships we will never forget. Over the years, we have come to know one another in ways we may never get to know others again. We have shared many good times and many bad times. We relied on each other to climb those mountains we thought we could never surmount. We also had to learn to accept each other -- idiosyncrasies and all. For these special bonds, on behalf of all us graduates, I would like to convey a thank-you for all the guidance, the comfort, and the support that we have shared over the years.

Through recalling these memories, we can see just how far we have come in our years at the Mount. A process of self-examination quickly reveals how much we have changed, developed, and grown. As a result of these changes, we have been molded into well-prepared professionals, trained to accept life's new challenges.

We strive for the ultimate and it is now ours. With pride, we can state that we are graduates of Mount Saint Vincent University. In whichever direction we choose to travel, our education will always be highly regarded. Whether we are graduating in faculties of public relations, child study, secretarial, business, home economics or gerontology, we are proud of our accomplishments.

Having attained our immediate goal, we would like to thank those who have made it possible. We thank the Faculty of Mount Saint Vincent University for their understanding, patience, and personalized assistance in helping us complete our formal education. As well, we thank our parents for their love, support, encouragement, and contributions (spiritual and financial) to our informal education experiences.

Graduation marks the first step in the rest of our lives. It signifies the end of one stage and the birth of another. A new unexplored frontier lies before us. At this time, we must envision what the future holds for us. We must take those gigantic and terrifying steps forward, steps which will place us face to face with the reality of the world surrounding our educational choices. The time has, therefore, come to experience a life of independence. We must get out there and establish our own places in that new frontier of our reality.

As we contemplate and question the course of our individual futures, let me end with this quote by Daniel Barnham:

Make no little plans; they have no magic to stir (your) blood ... Make big plans, aim high and hope and work.

Let this thought give us the inspiration and the courage to dream and to strive for seemingly unreachable goals. As Mount graduates, we have the ability to attain such goals, even if they are beyond our immediate grasp. Let us never, never surrender our dreams.

Thank-you, good luck, and may God go with you.

Tamara Connors

VALEDICTORIAN SANDRA RAY

Most Reverend Chancellor, Madam President, Distinguished Guests, Parents, and Friends we are indeed honoured to have you here today.

My fellow graduates, congratulations and thank-you. Thank-you for allowing me, one of the many international students here at the Mount, the opportunity to publically recognize this wonderful and spirited university; Mount Saint Vincent University.

As I look out and see the jubilant expressions of this group, I can feel it! The living spirit of MSVU is there! But today, there's also the feeling of excitement underlined by some sadness and uncertainty. It seems like only yesterday that we were the notorious Mount Saint Vincent "Frosh", filled with trepidation at the unknown. Now take a look around. We sit as a group of individuals who have journeyed to what many consider to be the finish, our University Convocation. Yet, as I look out upon this group, I realize that our life is like a novel and the end of this chapter only leads to the beginning of another. Once again, we are "Frosh" in a world of new and exciting experiences yet to be written. There are difficult challenges and choices to be accepted or rejected. Failures and successes are yet to be recorded. Sounds intimidating doesn't it?

Once again, that feeling of trepidation returns because I realize that things will never be the same again. I wonder, can I begin all over again without the security and friendships that I have grown to rely upon during my years at the Mount?

My response is immediate! Yes! Each of us came to MSVU to prepare ourselves by learning to fulfill a certain goal and today we have done just that. We are the 1988 graduates of Mount Saint Vincent University. A university which is a leader in Canadian post-secondary education. A leader in its encouragement of the non-traditional students' involvement within the university. My fellow graduates, we are indeed a privileged group. The Mount has provided us with the highest of standards to face the future confidently ... taught us how our failures only add to the joy of our successes and how our quest for truth leads to God. By putting those lessons in a safe place for reference we can now strive for the best in life. We need not face our futures filled with anxiety because we have the abilities and qualifications needed to confront new situations and to realize that we can only do our best.

The best comes with an abundance of patience, persistence and dedication. Patience when the understanding won't come. Persistence when knowledge is beyond our reach. Dedication to the knowledge we acquire. All of the qualities needed to meet that certain English professor's deadline or to complete a seemingly impossible computer assignment. My fellow graduates, it is these same blackrobed professors seated before us today who assigned those impossible tasks; who have given us one of the most precious gifts of all ... knowledge. When used to the best of our ability it is this knowledge that will allow us to reach our fullest potential in the remaining chapters of our lives.

If we were to entitle this novel of ours, DOING OUR BEST seems quite appropriate. It would not be complete, however, without a chapter dedicated to the parents and family who have encouraged us and supported us during our years of study at the Mount. You are friends ready to share in our successes and rescuers ready to catch us after our falls and encourage us to try again.

Our novel would indeed be incomplete without a chapter dedicated to the memories we have accumulated at the Mount. Three years ago, I left the beautiful islands of Bermuda for the somewhat colder climate of Halifax. The feelings of loneliness and abandonment that I experienced during my first week in residence were quickly dispelled as I realized that many others understood and shared those same feelings. Members of the Mount community are not expected to face situations alone. There is an intimacy and sense of community somewhat unique to our campus. The friendships formed during Wednesday nights at Vinnie's Pub, the cups of coffee and group discussions shared over a small table in the Sacateria's smoky atmosphere, the shared frustrations expressed during afternoon labs, and the pranks, giggles and tears shed in a small residence room. These special intimacies have given each of us the confidence we need to pick ourselves up after our falls in order to reach our goals; in order to be successful.

My fellow graduates, our foundation chapters are now complete. For most of us the remaining chapters will be written by us and us alone. Finish those chapters with the sustenance that they deserve. Thank-you again.
