Luxury Cruising "Unforgettable" According to Mount Alumna

by Dilly MacFarlane

"It was a wonderful party — Eli Wallach and Anne Francis, Cindy Williams, Joel Gray, Coleen Dewhurst, William F. Buckley ..." and of course, our own Irene McQuillan Murphy was there too, right in the middle of it, having a marvellous time, as usual. An evening in Hollywood you ask? Oh no.

In fact, the setting for this party was much more romantic and every bit as glamorous. Irene is recounting just one of her many adventures on the high seas, this time aboard a luxury "Cruise with the Stars."

Irene's introduction to cruising came in 1974 when she toured South America and the South Pacific aboard the M/V Sagafjord, a Norwegian ship well-known in cruising circles as the top of the line in every respect.

Since that time, Irene's love for the life on the ocean waves has taken her from New Years Eve in Rio de Janeiro to Madeira, Greece, the Taj Mahal, and "that one perfect day I'll never forget" she recalls wistfully, "dancing on the white sands of a South African beach while the orchestra played all of our favourite songs."

Irene has in fact danced her way around the world, as her souvenir photographs readily confirm.

She recalls with much affection the wonderful friendships that resulted from shared adventures in a setting that is designed to make shipmates feel at home with one another.

"So many of us still keep in touch," she says, "I managed once to rendezvous with a particularly nice lady whom I met aboard my first cruise 10 years before. Our separate cruise ships docked simultaneously in Thailand, so we just had to get together. We discovered that we would also be docking in Hong Kong at the same time, so we made a date to see each other again there."

According to Irene, the best part of a cruising holiday is the fact that once you board the plane to your cruise departure location, all the hassles are forgotten — no worries about packing and repacking luggage, no juggling figures in your head as to what to pay the waiter, no wondering about what entertainment will be available that evening.

Her only real complaint is that the food is far too tempting, but then there is always some kind of organized activity to help keep passengers trim. Even a casual stroll around the ship makes for excellent exercise since these liners are really like floating hotels. Life aboard ship is very appealing to Irene. Her happiest times while cruising are when the ship is actually at sea, rather than in port.

"Although there's plenty to do ashore, I sometimes prefer to stay aboard the ship. I love the shops, the games, the dancing ... I guess I'm just a born sailor," she quips.

Irene had planned a spring cruise along the Florida coast, but has changed her plans. At last report, she was eyeing the alumnae Caribbean cruise program and no doubt, if the spirit moves her, Irene will be on the high seas once again.

Irene McQuillan Murphy is an enthusiastic sailor who loves cruising because of the good friends she's made on her trips and the hassle-free life aboard ship.

Autumn Alumnae Cruise Could be Chance of a Lifetime

BON VOYAGE!! Imagine a luxury liner at the dock, streamers and balloons, band music, champagne bottles popping ... does this sound like the beginnings of a great vacation? Then read on — the Mount Saint Vincent Autumn Alumnae Cruise may be for you.

The alumnae association is sponsoring a Caribbean cruise aboard the Nordic Prince, leaving from Miami, Florida on November 12, 1986 for 10 days. The package includes air fare from Halifax to Miami and is open to any Mount alumnae or other friends.

This Royal Caribbean cruise offers the luxury of being on board a Love Boat-type floating resort with its daily exercise classes, organized games, movies, shopping, swimming pool, lounge and nightly entertainment.

There are also the five ports of call in as many days, to give a wide range of cultural experiences. The itinerary includes stops at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; St. Johns, Antigua; Bridgetown, Barbados; Fort de France, Martinique and Philipsburg, St. Maarten.

Highlights of the islands include Bluebeard's Castle, the European atmosphere of boutiques and restaurants, shopping bargains in native handcrafts, jewellery, silks and leather, Antigua's 365 beaches (can the island be that big???) and the many "tall ships" in scenic harbours ... a photographer's delight.

Sherry Legere, a Mount alumna of the class of 1981, is employed with Harvey's Travel Agency in Halifax and has made arrangements with the university alumnae office for this cruise package.

Further details can be obtained by contacting her at Harvey's Travel Agency, 1796 Granville Street, Halifax, or by calling 429-0080.

Profile

Agnes O'Donnell Kelly

Agnes (O'Donnell) Kelly, Class of 1939, died the first week of the new year and many are poorer for the loss, especially her daughters Mary and Anne and her sons Michael, Kevin, James and Pat. Her Mount alumnae friends who go back 40 years — and those she travelled with to New York and London — mourn her too.

Agnes, who participated fully in the university's 60th anniversary festivities this Fall, was enthusiastic in her support of the Mount's alumnae association.

She usually tackled the "plant table" at the annual fall fairs and could charm contributions out of all her friends and any others with whom she came in contact. And she did it with such good humor.

At meetings, she usually sat in the back row but could command the floor with the best of them on a point needing clarification or dear to her heart. According to Agnes, there was always a proper and fair way of doing things. Agnes was taught and taught well.

Apart from her commitment to the Mount and her work with the alumnae, Agnes was dedicated to the Beaverbank-Sackville community in which she had lived most of her life. After her marriage to Lieutenant Commander Michael Kelly, RCN, she travelled to various postings but returned home to Beaverbank where her children were raised.

Many tributes have been made to Agnes since her death, by friends and colleagues such as Halifax County School Board commissioner Shirley McGovern who said: "I know whenever we had church suppers at St. John Vianney's, Agnes and the crew from Beaverbank were a Godsend when it came to cleaning up." Marion Allen of the Sackville Historic Society said she had known Agnes all her life and that she would miss her greatly. "She was always full of energy when it came to getting things started and finished. Even after she was widowed, she was never the type of person to feel sorry for herself. She was one of the kindest people I have ever met, always thinking of other people, especially the elderly." And, according to Allen, Agnes would "open her house to everyone, even people she had just met."

Agnes will also be remembered for the contribution she made to the Beaverbank schools, where she worked as secretary to the Sackville School Board and did substitute teaching. "She was so liked by the students, teachers and the parents ... a very special person ... she mothered us all and I'm going to miss her a lot," said Sycamore Lane School principal Anne MacAusland.

Tributes have also come in the way of donations to the Agnes O'Donnell Kelly Memorial Fund for scholarship purposes. Already an estimated $2,000 has been received. Those who would like to contribute should contact the alumnae office. As Agnes would say, "It makes sense."

DUET's production facilitator Chris Shelton adjusts the microphone as Dilly MacFarlane puts her guest, Marc Neima, at ease just prior to taping another episode of the Alumnae Special.

Mount Alumnae Featured On Special TV Programs

Everyone's a star on the Alumnae Special — the new television show that goes on the Atlantic Satellite Network twice weekly via the Mount's DUET program (Distance University Education via Television).

The first 13 week series began during the Fall semester when the Mount's alumnae officer, Dilly MacFarlane, approached DUET with the idea of using the time available to promote alumnae activities. The previous year had seen the university's public relations office use the same time slot to promote Mount activities and its faculty and students.

"There is such a wealth of interesting alumnae in the metro area," she says, "that I thought we should conduct a series of interviews with them. It's one more way to reach out to the community and let them know what's happening at the Mount and it's also a great way to strengthen our alumnae network."

Because the program goes out to many centres in the Maritimes, and also to parts of Quebec, Southern Ontario, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, it reaches alumnae who now live far away from the Mount and helps them to keep in touch with their alma mater.

MacFarlane, who hosts the Alumnae Special, says she loves every minute of it. "I look forward to the taping sessions. It's exciting, and the people I interview give me new enthusiasm. My guests bring their own energy to the program and as I know many of them personally, the interviewing is very easy and spontaneous."

MacFarlane usually sits with her guests for five or 10 minutes before taping begins, to put them at their ease and make them feel comfortable. This friendly and informal approach seems to pay off because, MacFarlane says, "Everyone feels that the interviews are fun."

As far as she knows, the Mount is the only university in the country doing regular television interviews with alumnae. The Mount's DUET personnel and university's public relations office were pleased with the first 13-week series and have already started on a second series, which also runs for 13 weeks.

Alumna Christine Shelton, DUET's production facilitator, says that she sees alumnae as potential DUET users. "The program also helps the casual viewer to get an idea of what university is all about," she says, "and it's nice for our student assistants in the studio to work on something a little different from the usual classroom sessions. In fact, we consider it a bit of a perk!"

The Alumnae Special can be seen on ASN in the metro area on Tuesdays and Thursday at 2:45 p.m. Outside metro, viewers should consult their local listings.

Alumnae Support For Jubilee Scholarships Overwhelming

The establishment of Jubilee Scholarships last Fall brought an overwhelming response from Mount alumnae. Of the 23 scholarships, 19 were either donated by alumnae or were in honour of alumnae. That figure, representing approximately $228,000, "speaks highly of the commitment of past graduates to the Mount and to the continuance of educational opportunities to students of high academic standing," said development director Lorraine Johnson.

This lovely, dignified photo of Sr. Marie Agnes White will remind many alumnae of the occasion when she was awarded the first honorary degree in the history of the Mount.

The most recent scholarship commemorating the Mount's anniversary as a degree granting institution was the Sister Marie Agnes White Jubilee Scholarship established by Dr. Catherine Wallace.

Alumnae response to this scholarship fund to honour a devoted and well loved teacher has been tremendous, said Johnson.

The goal for the scholarship is $12,000. To date, $4,300.00 has already been contributed.

During her long association with the Mount, Sister served generations of Mount students as athletics director, dramatic coach, organist, student advisor and teacher of history, German and English. "To all these areas of service she brought an integrity and commitment which were truly outstanding," she said.

In 1971, Sister Marie Agnes was honoured by the university when she was granted Professor Emeritus status and became the recipient of the Mount's first honorary degree.

Johnson said that any who wish to honour Sister Marie Agnes should send their donation to the Development Office and make their cheque payable to Mount Saint Vincent University.

"A named scholarship is a fitting way to pay tribute to those we love. Each year in perpetuity a deserving student will receive a scholarship award of $1,000 along with information on the donor and the person being honoured," she said.

Sharpen Your Wits For Mount's Reach for the Top Quiz Show

The Mount's own version of Reach for the Top with CBC's popular quiz-master Gerry Fogarty, will take place on Tuesday, March 25 in Vinnie's Pub, Rosaria Centre at 7:30 p.m.

Replacing the alumnae-sponsored trivial pursuits contests of the past two years, Reach for the Top will be a "one night stand" aimed at those who like to match wits with their peers, while at the same time contributing to the Alumnae Student Union Leadership Award which goes to an outstanding student leader each year.

Alumnae officer Dilly MacFarlane says, "Reach for the Top has the same kind of competitive spirit as trivial pursuits. It has a familiar format so that everyone will know what it's all about."

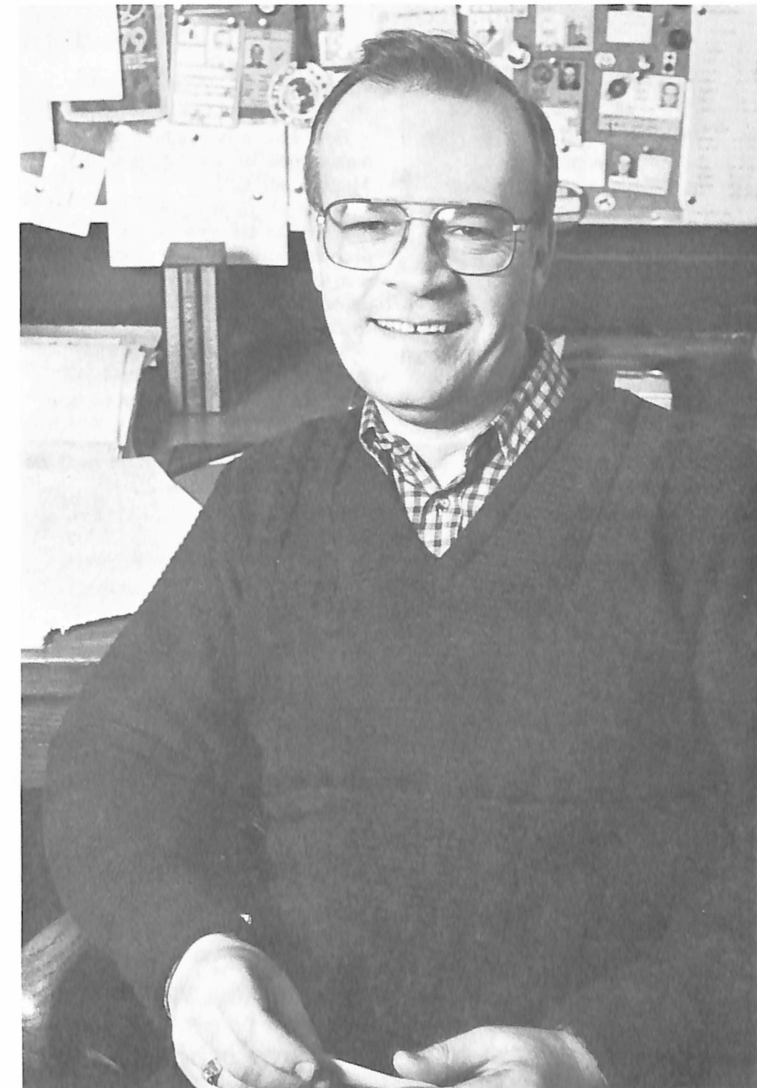

She is delighted that Gerry Fogarty has agreed to bring his own brand of "shoot-from-the-hip" questioning to the Mount and feels he will be a big drawing card for the event.

Four representatives from the Mount's faculty, administration, student body and alumnae will make up the panel of judges. There will be eight teams and three matches of 20 minutes duration leading up to a grand championship match of 30 minutes in a three-flight challenge.

MacFarlane is urging student societies, staff and faculty associations and alumnae to form teams and is telling them to "get your act together, sharpen your wits and start polishing up your general knowledge."

Teams of five members each (with no more than one faculty member on each team) must register at the Alumnae Office or the Student Union Office by March 21. An entry fee of $30 is required.

Nomination forms for the Alumnae Student Union Leadership Award will be available by March 15 at either the Alumnae or Student Union office. Any student, part-time or full time is eligible for the award.

CBC's popular quiz-master Gerry Fogarty will be on campus March 25 to fire off the questions at the Mount's Reach for the Top competition.

Chapter News

Dr. Ruth Goldbloom, former Chair of the Board of Governors; Chair of successful capital campaign, Project One: Futures for Women; honorary degree recipient and life member in the Mount Saint Vincent Alumnae Association, is now in the midst of a world tour accompanying her husband.

Ruth's husband, Dr. Richard Goldbloom, is on a medical fellowship and world lecture tour. Between social events and other obligations, Ruth is trying to see as many Mount alumnae living abroad as possible.

The Goldblooms left Halifax in November enroute to London and continued on to several destinations in India. From there they planned to tour China, Singapore, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Postcards from the Goldblooms have been arriving and Ruth says she's been keeping a diary. Highlights so far include: sunrise at the Taj Mahal in India, a sensational boat trip down the Li River in Shanghai, "culinary exotica" in the South of China — where they learned it is wise not to request a list of ingredients of what you are about to eat, and, a climb up the Great Wall of China.

In an effort to keep in touch, the alumnae office wrote to alumnae in many of the Goldbloom's destinations informing them of the visit.

In Hong Kong Dr. Erdener Kaynak, Professor of Marketing and former Chairman of the Mount's Department of Business Administration and currently on sabbatical leave at the Chinese University, hosted a successful alumnae reception for the Goldblooms.

As a result of this meeting, the alumnae association now has a Hong Kong Chapter with Margaret Tang (BA '83) as its president.

Photos were taken at the reception and will be published in a future alumnae issue of The Connection. The Hong Kong Chapter sends it "loving greetings" to everyone at the Mount and Ruth wishes everyone a "Happy New Year of the Tiger."

Bermuda

It may have been a chilly November day in Halifax, but the sun was shining in Bermuda when 40 Mount alumnae and their husbands gathered at the Grotto Bay Beach Club for a wine and cheese reception in the Garden Terrace.

Former senior class president, Kerri Moorhead, BPR '84 acted as co-ordinator for the event with lots of help from her friends. The group was getting together to catch up on each other's news and to greet visiting Alumnae Officer, Dilly MacFarlane, BA '81 and Assistant Admissions Officer Alice MacKichan, BHEc/ BED '83.

Both were in Bermuda to visit local high schools and speak to potential Mount students.

The Bermuda group was most interested to hear news of the proposed tourism degree program. In fact, several alumnae expressed an interest in returning to the Mount for continued studies in this field.

Several Bermudian alumnae are expecting additions to the family, so watch the Class Notes section for news of recent arrivals.

Toronto Chapter

The annual Pot Luck Supper was held last June with Lily Chan BA '61 as hostess for this very enjoyable event.

The first Fall meeting was held on October 15 1985, at Judy Campbell's (AC'65) house.

On November 18 a successful Christmas Craft auction was held with Bernadine Melanson (BSchEC '45) as hostess and Madelaine Ward as auctioneer (AC '33).

Alumna Maureen Hickey (AC '62 BA, BED'68) has received her Master's degree in music from the University of Illinois.

The Chapter was saddened to hear of the recent death of Clare (Kinley) (AC, BSChEC '34) Churchill's husband.

CASE Conference

Alumnae Officer Dilly MacFarlane; Director of Development and Alumnae Affairs, Lorraine Johnson; and Assistant Valerie Burkimsher were in Montreal recently to attend the annual CASE District 1 Conference involving alumnae and development professionals in Eastern Canada and the New England states.

The conference program was geared toward developing professional skills in the areas of alumnae programming, publications and fund raising.

While the three were there, a gathering was arranged of Montreal alumnae at the McGill Graduate Society headquarters at Martlet House, courtesy of Gavin Ross, executive director of the society.

Following the Montreal conference and alumnae meeting, MacFarlane headed for Toronto to meet with alumnae and to inspect alumnae operations at several Toronto universities.

While in Montreal and Toronto, she offered presentations on the Alumnae Caribbean Cruise and other projects of interest to alumnae.

Halifax Chapter

On December 3 the Halifax Dartmouth Metro Branch hosted the first of many interesting programs geared toward local alumnae.

The program topic was "Managing Your Memory" with guest speaker Eileen Pease, an alumna of the Mount. Eileen is an educational consultant with her company, Dynamic Reading. Other courses taught by Eileen include speed reading, career change options, creative problem solving, investing, time management and public speaking.

Chef Rene of the Mount prepared festive punches and sumptuous sweets for the 28 alumnae who attended.

This occasion gave everyone the opportunity to meet former acquaintances from the Mount, and to learn helpful techniques to improve the memory.

Good Deeds

Alumnae across the country have been doing good deeds for the Mount by standing in for university president, Dr. E. Margaret Fulton at various out-of-town ceremonies and official functions requiring representation from the Mount when Dr. Fulton is not available to attend.

"It's great to know that I can call on our alumnae to pinch hit for me from time to time," says Dr. Fulton, and according to Patricia Faulkner, BA '75 of Charlottetown, PEI, "having the honour of representing Mount Saint Vincent University was a special personal pleasure."

Joyce Amirault summed up her experience by saying "I was proud to represent the Mount." Other alumnae serving in this capacity include Sandra Petersen, Edmonton; Yvette Roland, Calgary; and Dr. Marguerite Flinn-Ruiz, Vancouver.

Mount public relations graduate (1982), Michelle Gallant has been named Management Supervisor with Halifax based Corporate Communications Limited, Atlantic Canada's largest public relations and advertising agency.

Gallant joined CCL in 1980, shortly before completing the final credits for her BPR degree. Since then, she's held progressively senior positions, culminating in her appointment to the management supervisor position late last year.

At 25, she is among the youngest management supervisors at any major Canadian advertising agency.

"I write to congratulate you on a truly successful week for the alumnae as well as the university.

It was great to see all the good publicity the Mount got. The president's dinner, Jubilee functions, and the tea were most enjoyable and successful events."

"The name certainly suited the occasion — it was Gala! From the minute we hit the door until we left at 1:00 a.m. we laughed, chatted and reminisced with special friends. The music . . . was fantastic and the food . . . delicious."

Aftermath of the Jubilee — What Wonderful Letters We Had!

"Thank you very much for the wonderful souvenirs in the form of two photographs of the most memorable day of my life. I still do not believe it happened to me.

It was very nice of you to have sent the remembrance of that special day at Government House, and I thank you and Mount Saint Vincent alumnae for making it all possible."

"To have been chosen one of the recipients of the Mount Saint Vincent Alumnae Sixtieth Jubilee Award of Distinction fills me with mixed emotions of humility and pride. Please extend to the members of the awards committee my sincere thanks. While these words of appreciation are most inadequate, my feelings on being honoured by the Mount through the alumnae are deep and heartfelt."

"I want to congratulate you and all those in the alumnae association for a wonderful event in the Jubilee Gala. It was one of the most exciting parties we had ever been to."

"I was invited to gown and participate in the Baccalaureate Mass and also the Graduation exercise. I did with much pleasure and pride. That old Mount spirit had me in its grip! I was 'out to lunch' much of the time reliving the years 1954-56 — our hey days. Fond memories of fun, loyalty and hard work we all shared came back very vividly to me."

"The Gala was a tremendous success — thanks to your devoted hard work, imagination, enthusiasm and leadership. Congratulations!"

"The Jubilee marks a new beginning for the alumnae and I'm sure that between staff and volunteer efforts, our success will continue."

"In selecting me as one of the recipients of the Alumnae Jubilee Award of Distinction, the alumnae has accorded me the greatest honour at their command and I am deeply touched. Will you please convey to the alumnae and members of the university's Jubilee committee my grateful thanks for their confidence and assure them that I shall always wear this tribute with enormous pride."

"I cannot begin to tell you what an absolutely wonderful idea it was to gather such a group of past presidents for a delightful evening of dining and entertainment. It certainly was fascinating to hear recollections of alumnae past and you were most astute in noting that the Mount certainly has changed."

"Congratulations on a job more than well done! The entire week was a success — thanks to the extraordinary contribution of each member of the committee.

What a party that was! I feel sure that the "Gala" will go down in history as one of the Mount's finest moments!

For the dear Sisters' sake, I behaved all evening as a proper Mount girl should except for two serious lapses. (I ended up doing the "Tiger Rag" with the president and the "Charleston" with a triple-jointed English professor!) Dear Mother Evaristus must have been rolling around in her grave.

I'm looking forward to our 75th!"

Much Good Will Generated At Special Luncheon

A luncheon given as a tribute to Mount alumnae in the fields of law and accounting was hosted by President E. Margaret Fulton on November 19 and was attended by more than 50 alumnae and their guests, clients, colleagues or employers.

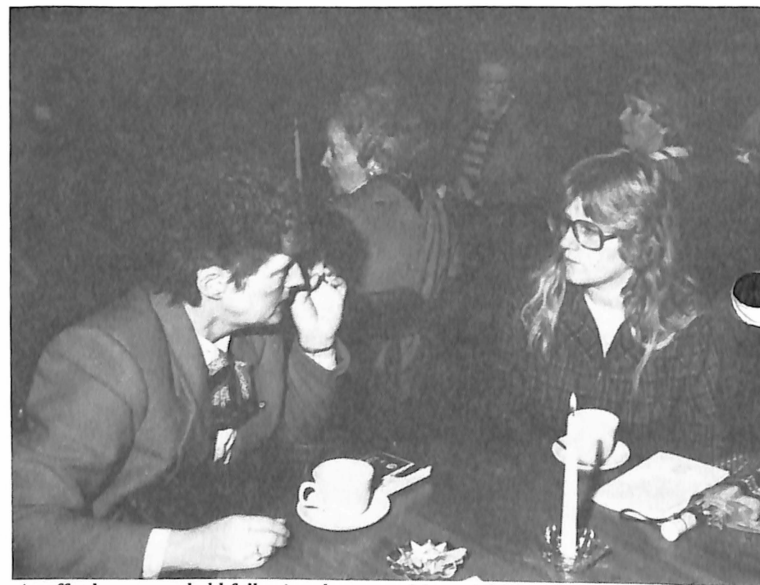

"The idea came out of a desire for the alumnae association to include in its active membership a number of alumnae professional clubs" alumnae officer Dilly MacFarlane explained.

Rachel Martin C.A. (BBA '79) and Paula Wedge, (BA '81), a practising lawyer, approached the association with the request for a gathering of alumnae in the accounting and legal professions, because they felt these professions complement one another and it would be invaluable to establish a strong network between the two groups.

"A lot of good will was generated," MacFarlane said. "There were student representatives from the Mount's business programs and from the business society. Greetings were brought by Dr. Fulton, by our two co-ordinators Rachel and Paula and by John Dickie, LLB, a past chairman of the Mount's board of governors. The lawyers and C.A.'s enjoyed identifying each other as Mount grads and many of them established new professional contacts."

Interest has been expressed in developing a professional club within the alumnae association, to strengthen the bonds between the two professions and the Mount, MacFarlane said.

A coffee house was held following the recent Memorial Mass for deceased alumnae, with families and friends enjoying a variety of entertainment and refreshments.

Mass Celebrates Faith, Wisdom And Friendship

"Fides, sapientia, amicitia" (faith, wisdom, friendship) the motto of the Mount Saint Vincent Alumnae Association, was the theme taken for a Memorial Mass for deceased alumnae held recently in Our Lady of Wisdom Chapel, Evaristus Hall.

More than 60 alumnae, students, faculty members and families of deceased students/alumnae gathered "in the spirit of faith, wisdom and friendship to pray for the repose of the souls of deceased alumnae, for the comfort of bereaved families and friends, for all those who face death, and for peace in the world."

Mount chaplain and alumna, Sister

Lorraine d'Entremont, delivered a homily relating the alumnae association motto to the readings of the evening.

She said, "Paul, in his first letter to the Corinthians, speaks of a Spirit in the Body which is greater than any of its parts. This unity and common spirit are the outgrowths of true love of friendship ... Let us remember with gratitude the challenge to unity of spirit that comes to us both in the Word today and in our alumnae tradition."

Following the Mass, a coffee house was held in Vinnie's Pub, with a variety of entertainment provided by alumnae Mary Reynolds and Cheryl Gaudet, along with Trish Learner, Graham Benvie and Nancy MacPherson.

A memorial mass for deceased alumnae has been held annually for many years, with plans for the tradition to continue.
