

KATINA 1971

Katina '70-'71 Mount St. Vincent University Halifax, Rova Scotia

"Somewhere"

A place for us, Somewhere a place for us Where peace and quiet and open air Wait for us somewhere. There is a time for us Someday a time for us A time together with time to spare A time to learn, time to care. Someday, somewhere We'll find a new way of living, We'll find a way of forgiving, Somedap. Des there is a place for each of us, A place of peace and quiet And we must try to pursue this place Where love is like a passion That burns like a fire, And also a fulfillment of two hearts' desire Be as determined as that of a little stream That saunters down the hillside seeking Its lovers Only to become a huge river— Destined to the sea. Des there is a place for us Somewhere a place for us Hold my hand and we're half way there. Hold my hand and I'll take you there Somehow, Someday, Somewhere We'll find a place for us.

Our Dedication Sister Catherine Wallace

Sister Catherine Wallace has been President of Mount Saint Vincent University for six years. Her dedication to this position and the way in which she has carried out her responsibilities is exemplified in the growth and character of our university today. She has had the ability to recognize what is demanded of a university and by her vision has made ideals and dreams realities for everyone here. Her courage in pursuing worthwhile goals is an example for all who will be called upon to serve and give in the future.

She has acted as a catalyst and is always trying to make this university fulfill its obligation to those here and the society of which it is a part. In leadership, justice and initiation she has excelled and her impressive reputation stands as a testimony to this.

And, into the office of President, Sister Catherine Wallace has incorporated the traits of womanhood. At a university that is oriented to emphasis on woman, she is a model of the potential we, as women, have. Her gentleness, poise, serenity, and graciousness are an integral part of a dynamic executive and truly feminine person. We have much to be grateful for.

With our respect, admiration, and love we dedicate our yearbook to you, Sister Catherine Wallace and may the admiration and loyalty that you have achieved here be the growing and everlasting foundation of our university.

President's Address

One of the major desires that is manifesting itself in contempory thought is the idea and concept of individual freedom. This demand for freedom to define and assure one's individuality has become a considerable dimension in student life. The accent is on the individual and as such the responsibility rests on him. The university environment should be a total involvement in the learning and accepting of one's freedom and responsibilities. The core of this process is self-knowledge.

If we have been at least partially successful at this evolution of self-realization we should be able to master any situation we are confronted with by realizing their roots in ourselves.

The burden is on our backs, the responsibility is ours; the freedom to do something that will lighten the burden of others is our prize. The piece of paper alone is worthless.

"The hidden well-spring of your soul must needs rise and run murmuring to the sea; And the treasure of your infinite depths would be revealed to your eyes. But let there be no scales to weigh your unknown treasure; And seek not the depths of your knowledge with staff or sounding line. For self is a sea boundless and measureless.

Kahlil Gibran

A SHORT WALK

I met Life when I opened the door. It stared at me too long... I cried.

I met Time on the stairs. I was going down, it was going up... It passed me by.

I met the Past along the pathway...
It displayed many cracks;
I stumbled over most.

I met the Future on the sidewalk...
It pushed me onto the street;
I could not resist.

I met Death on the street... It was travelling too fast. I was too afraid to stop it.

...Judy

TO AN OLD FRIEND

Oh, you're such a funny soul,
Making frowns upon your face.
Loving me, hating me, remembering
Some long forgotten place.
Tomorrow bubbling in your eye.
We'll build a secret hideaway.
We'll have a dog, ten cats
And be together almost every day.
Oh, you're such a loving soul,
Making poems with your heart,
Knowing me, not knowing me,
Beginning long before it's time to start.

... Margaret During

POEM AFTER DARK

Sleeping in some dreamy warmth, love moves, wraps itself around my aching thoughts. I touch it, softly, softly..... it replies by crossing over private dreams and breathing two lonely breaths into the form of one peaceful sleeping dreamer.

. Margaret During

When I left your home at dusk that night, I walked without taking time
To think that you might guess that
All those smiles weren't mine.

And fog was where I wanted to be.

The distance before me could easily be found For you couldn't see far at all, And like so many things that day The fog, like those smiles, was a wall.

You didn't take time to know me, Guess that was too much to expect; And you also didn't realize Giving me love would have this effect.

And fog was where I wanted to be.

That day, like these words, will go nowhere But to the end of a memory.
And when I remember too clearly,
Fog is where I want to be.

Our President, Addresses the Graduates,

Dear Graduates,

A message to you must begin with gratitude.....

gratitude for your spirit of warmth and friendship
gratitude for your earnestness in learning gratitude for your enthusiastic participation in academic and administrative life

gratitude for your compassion towards the war victims, the disadvantaged, the sick and the disabled gratitude for your youth and your hope, for your earnestness and your foolishness gratitude that the Mount has been really enriched by your presence here.

May your degree be an award for all you have been and done at the Mount.

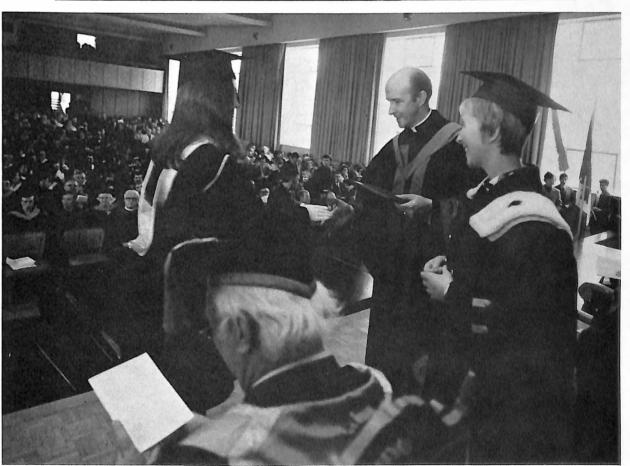

May your memories be rich and your future blessed.

Sister Catherine

OUR DESTINIES

INTO TOMORROWS

Finally the last page was sent into the publisher, and a sigh of relief was expelled by the tired threesome. At long last the work was terminated and only the anxious anticipation of the return production hung over our heads, but we feared little. We worked with great enthusiasm and every moment was indeed an enjoyable experience.

So many times I would stop and think, what is the meaning of it all? Why a yearbook? My only conclusion was that for four years we made Mount Saint Vincent our home and our friends became one happy family. To me those memories are cherishable and worth working for. Years from now in moments of depression I can turn back the pages of time and share these fond memories with my family and friends. Today, the yearbook may look only like and friends. Today, the yearbook may look only like a promise to memories, but tomorrow these dreams could be portrayed like yesterday's reality.

We have with great pride dedicated this yearbook to our President, Sr. Catherine Wallace who not only represents our university but to me signifies a woman with poise and dignity, with leadership and ambition. Through this small token we will gratefully acknowledge what she has represented to us, womanhood.

So now that we have closed our work, we will open the doors to a memorable future, GOOD STORY TELLING!

A cure for arthritis is a matter of scientific probability, likely to be achieved in our generation. The future should see even greater strides, primarily due to research in University medical schools and great hospitals. The conquest of arthritis will benefit all Canadians.
