

Enrolment Up Says Report

Mount Saint Vincent University has shown an impressive increase in its student population — up 16 per cent in 1980-81, according to a Maritime Provinces Higher Education Commission report just published.

The 45-page document outlines some of the major changes which will affect postsecondary education in the Maritimes during the 1980's and suggests mechanisms by which its orderly and effective development may continue.

One section on Distance Education, in which the Mount has more than a passing interest having carried out a pilot project on the system last year, suggests that its development would enhance access to education opportunities even more than is the case now, especially to those who are time and place-bound.

According to the report, Commission members agreed to appoint a six-member committee comprised of commission university representatives to:

- 1. monitor the development of the new telecommunications technologies;
- 2. identify any regional needs and appropriate alternative responses;
- 3. list the possible participants and initiate dialogue; and
- 4. recommend, where feasible, experimental projects.

Tables included in the report indicate that expenditures of $85.6 million, $131.9 million and $16.1 million were approved by the Council of Maritime Premiers for universities in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island respectively.

The total operating grant approved for the Mount's 1982-83 fiscal year is $6,845,290. No provision was made to offset the effect of inflation upon tutition fees. If the Mount hadn't increased its tuition fee operation assistance would have had to be increased by 15.2 per cent instead of the 11.3 per cent approved.

The Mount, according to the report, will also receive an equalization grant of $266,740. This provision is in respect of a 10-year program to improve the base grant of Nova Scotia institutions receiving relatively. low levels of support.

tively, low levels of support. Score thig and to the enrolment table for (as compared to 1975-76 enrolments) the Technical University of Nova Scotia showed the greatest increase in student population — up 64 per cent. Universite Sainte-Anne also increased its enrolment by 27 per cent. The Mount came next followed by the Agricultural College, and the Nova Scotia Teachers College. Both increased by 15 per cent.

Acadia University, the College of Cape Breton and Dalhousie seemed to hold their own with no major significant increases while Saint Francis Xavier and St. Mary's showed decreases in full-time equivalents of eight and four per cent respectively.

Fulton Heads Task Force

Tremendous fear that the microelectronics technology will dehumanize the work place and contribute to unemployment has been expressed to members of Canada's Task Force on Micro-Electronics in Employment chaired by Dr. E. Margaret Fulton.

"Others see the new technology as a means to turn the economy around and establish a whole new set of services which will open up thousands of job opportunities for Canadians," she said.

Somewhere in between these two divergent points of view ''is the reality'' upon which recommendations must be made to government.

The task force, which was appointed in

GALLAND AND ENERGY IS MINDPOWER

March by Canada's Labor Minister Charles Caccia, was asked to investigate the status, implications and extent micro-electronics technology is used in Canada and its effect on working people.

The five-member team, headed by Fulton, was also asked to assess the adequacy of the Canada Labor Code as it applies to technological change. Since research indicated women may be most affected by these changes, the task force was also asked to give this area special attention.

Public hearings were held in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Halifax, Edmonton and Vancouver, and submissions were received from representatives of unions, government departments, women's organizations, business and industry. Many private citizens also presented briefs.

Dr. Fulton has found it fascinating but hard work. "We've had very little time to gather the information and compile the report. But it has to be done quickly because the technology is advancing so quickly, to do otherwise would render our research obsolete.

The report is now being compiled in Ottawa and Dr. Fulton hopes to see it completed and in the hands of the Minister by October.

Others serving on the task force are: Dr. Harish Jain, Professor, Industrial Relations, McMaster University; Professor Jeannine David-McNeil, l'Ecole des Haute Commerciales, Montreal; Dr. Ratna Ray, Director, Women's Bureau, Labour Canada: and Dr. Zavis Zeman, Director, Technology and Society Program, Institute for Research and Public Policy, Toronto

alumnae update | New Faces On Campus

If nostalgia is the "in" thing, then the Mount's Homecoming '82 was the place to find it on July 31. There's no doubt that a longing to return to what we fondly remember as happier and more leisurely times is a strong ingredient in the success of any reunion, and this years, was considered the best ever.

The beautifully groomed campus was the perfect backdrop for a day of glorious sunshine. President Fulton was up with the birds to encourage alumnae to join her for an early morning jog, and breakfast pulled in about 90 alumnae (a record for that early hour).

By mid-morning campus tours and faculty presentations were in full swing followed by the dedication of the Alice Egan Hagen Board Room in Rosaria Centre and a Patio Punch reception.

An exhibit of old year books, pictures, class rings, diplomas and academic hoods (gleaned from alumnae and the university's archives) proved a big attraction as did the special photographic collection in Rosaria Centre.

The theatre-luncheon was one of the big hits of the day. Singer Mary Kelly entertained 140 alumnae during the buffet lunch which was followed by Marie Kelly's play "Don't Stir Me" about the good (bad?) old days at the Academy. That really WAS an exercise in nostalgia!

Another popular event was a delightful tea with the Sisters at the Motherhouse where links with teachers and classmates were renewed.

Nearly 200 alumnae attended the Lobster Banquet and enjoyed the trip back to the big band era with the John Alphonse Big Band (more nostalgic sighs!)

This year's homecoming honored alumnae who graduated in years ending with two or seven. Special presentations were made to graduates celebrating their 50th and 25th anniversaries (1932 and 1957) and there were other presentations made to those who had come the furthest distance to attend; the oldest alumna present (Lena Davison Agnew, who graduated from the Academy in 1921) and the most recent grads (1981).

Homecoming chairperson, Dr. Irene McQuillan Murphy, her crew of volunteers and staff from the public relations, alumnae and development offices worked long and arduous hours to make sure things ran smoothly. They attribute at least some of the success to the fact that Homecoming was held earlier in the year to tie in with Nova Scotia's Old Home Summer activities. Many alumnae indicated that summer is a more convenient time for many people to travel and the university can offer fine accommodation in the residences.

Plans are already being formulated for next year's event.

Mount Saint Vincent University's new alumnae officer is Dorothy (Dilly) Mac-Farlane whose appointment came just six weeks after she picked up her B.A. Honors English degree at Spring Convocation.

Well-known to many on campus, Mac-Farlane has participated in several of the Mount's theatre productions, including Godspell and the Mount Playhouse. She first attended the university back in 1967. She went on to Dalhousie University where she also worked. She married in 1970.

MacFarlane returned to the Mount as a mature student. She was the first graduate in the Mount's new Honors English degree program and was awarded the Mrs. Angus L. MacDonald Prize for Literary Achievement. Like many at the Mount, she completed her studies while holding down a full-time job in her father's business and raising two young children.

A native of Halifax who has never lived more than five miles from where she was born, MacFarlane now makes her home in one of the city's North End hydrostone houses. Any history buff knows that this subdivision was one of the first planned areas in Halifax and replaced homes which were demolished in the 1917 Halifax Explosion. "My grandparents lived in the same house and my father was born there," she says. Family tradition dies hard in the Partridge family (her maiden name).

MacFarlane thinks the Mount is an exciting place, ''It's where I want to be.''

Exhibitions Officer

Andy James is the Art Gallery's ninth Exhibitions Officer. The appointments are for a period of one year.

A native of Halifax, he received his Bachelor of Fine Arts from the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design and feels his yea with the Mount will give him useful exper ience which will help him decide his future. "It's a very varied job," he says, "where I get to do lighting, matting, picture-framing and a lot of practical things. After the year is up I intend to paint and teach."

The position of Exhibitions Officer has two-way benefits. It gives art school graduates an insight into how a gallery is run and provides the gallery with an interested and tremendously useful extra "body".

Assistant Registrar

Margaret (Neaves) Boutilier has returned to her native Nova Scotia to take up the duties of Assistant Registrar at the Mount. She had been living and working in Sudbury, Ontario for the past two years, where her husband was employed. Now they are settling down in Halifax, glad to be "close to the sea again."

Boutilier graduated from Dalhousie University in 1978 with a B.Sc. in psychology and the following year obtained her B.Ed. While she was in Sudbury she was employed as senior computer records clerk at Laurentian University

Her first impressions of the Mount are that "it's a people-oriented university" and she's looking forward to being in the thick of things now the students have returned.

Athletics Officer

June (Lumsden) Tanner has been appointed Athletics Officer for Mount Saint Vincent University. A native of Halifax, she graduated from St. Francis Xavier University with a B.Sc. in Physical Education and taught school in Charlottetown for three vears.

She returned to Halifax in 1980 to get married and did long-term substitution teaching in the Halifax school system for a vear.

In 1981, Tanner was appointed Development Co-ordinator for Volleyball Nova Scotia (under Sport Nova Scotia).

Tanner will be running the lunch hour clubs, coaching volleyball and doing administrative duties. She says of the Mount, "We have a great advantage because so much can be done here — we have such good facilities." One of her aims is to see more of the community involved in Mount's sports programs ''just as mu the students.

Academic Vice-President On the Job

New Chairpersons Appointed

New department chairpersons for the 1982-83 academic year are as follows: Chemistry, Dr. Robert McDonald; History, Dr. Hugh Wallace; Mathematics, Dr. Charles Edmunds; Modern Languages, Dr. Armand Morel; Philosophy, Dr. Pierre Payer; and Psychology, Dr. Fred Harrington.

Continuing their duties from last year are Dr. Lillian Wainwright, Biology; Dr. Erdener Kaynak, Business Administration; Dr. Ram Seth, Economics; Dr. Andrew Manning, Education; Dr. David Monaghan, English; Dr. Marilyn McDowell, Home Conomics; Dr. Larry Fisk, Political Studies; Dr. Jacques Goulet, Religious Studies;

gy/Anthropology

Australia.

Dr. Pauline A. Jones is the Mount's new Academic Vice-President.

A native of Corner Brook, New foundland, Dr. Jones' most recent position before joining the Mount was Director of the Institute for Research in Human Abilities and Associate Professor of Psychology at Memorial University, Newfoundland, where she originally received her first degree, Bachelor of Arts (Education) in 1961.

She was awarded her graduate degrees in educational psychology from the University of Alberta in 1965 and 1969. Following her graduate studies, she was a postdoctoral research student with the Department of Social Psychology, at the London School of Economics.

Apart from her work with Memorial University, Dr. Jones taught at the University of Alberta and had been a visiting professor in the Psychological Studies Department of Monash University, Melbourne, Dr. Jones joined the Memorial faculty in 1969 as an Assistant Professor of Psychology and was promoted to Associate Professor in 1974. She served for a year as acting director of the Institute until her fulltime appointment in 1974.

In 1980, Dr. Jones was elected President of the Association of Newfoundland Psychologists and for the past three years has been their representative on the National Advisory Council of Provincial Associations of Psychologists.

For the past year she was President of the Newfoundland and Labrador Association of the Aging; Chairman of the psychology research grants adjudication committee for the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada; Chairman of the Senate Committee on Research, Memorial University; and has just completed a three-year term as a member of the Academic Advisory Panel for the SSHRCC.

Dr. Jones is also the author of many publications on child development, cognitive psychology, language and family studies.

Dr. Jones says of her new position, "You reach a point in your career when this sort of opportunity arises and I had to make a choice between taking on higher administrative duties or continuing to move forward with research and publications. I felt honored to have been nominated for the position at the Mount, and knew that it would provide a new challenge that I needed and felt ready for."

Dr. Jones' husband, Edward, who holds a doctorate in secondary education, is a curriculum consultant for the Province of Newfoundland and will be joining Dr. Jones and their 13-year-old son, Stephen, in Halifax at a later date.

"My husband was very supportive of my decision to come to the Mount," the new Academic Vice-president says, "Stephen has been enrolled at Clayton Park Junior High and seems to have taken the move very well."

Dr. Jones cherishes the small amount of time that she's free to spend with her family "doing the things we enjoy together such as cross-country skiing, canoeing and golf - my son's already a much better golfer than I am!" During her research career, she has particularly enjoyed the opportunities for travel, having visited many different parts of the world including Australia, Hong Kong, Tokyo, Brussels, Paris and London. "But," she says, "the two things I enjoy most of all, when I have time just for myself, are music and philosophy."

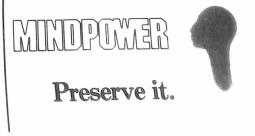

Asst. Prof. Joan Ryan, Secretarial Administration; and Dr. Sheva Medjuck, Sociolo-

Trees Identified

During the summer 426 trees on the Mount's campus were identified and labelled after the Grounds Department had received a Summer Canada Employment Grant in order to establish an arboretum. Head Gardener Carol Goodwin-Hatt says: "We were able to employ three students for the task, which has taken us more than 12 weeks. Now we're planning a special opening and tour of the campus for horticulture students in the area and the landscape architecture class from the Technical University of Nova Scotia.

Anyone interested in increasing their knowledge of trees should take a stroll during lunch hours and see how many of the 426 types they can identify!

Who Says Summer's Quiet At The Mount?

On The Move

Judy Lupart, a new faculty member in the Education Department, recently received the Wilfrid Wees Doctoral Thesis Award, for the most outstanding dissertation for the years 1979-81. This was awarded at the Canadian College of Teachers convention in Niagara Falls.

* * *

The Office Administration Department faculty members have been busy all summer - Shirley Potter was one of the main speakers when the province's business education teachers met in Tatamagouche for a two-day workshop on word processing. Sponsored by the Nova Scotia Department of Education, it was the first of a planned series.

JoAnn Michels was guest speaker at the regional meeting of Air Canada administrators and office personnel, telling them about "The Office of the Future"

Science Research Associates sponsored a Summer Institute on Office Automation in Business Education, held at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. and attended by Glen Flemming, of the Mount's Office Administration Department.

* * *

Admissions Officer Susan Tanner successfully completed the Summer Institute in Student Recruitment and Marketing held at the University of Maryland. Students representing more than 80 U.S. and Canadian colleges and universities attended the workshops on designing marketing strategy, recruitment team development and planning effective publications and other communications and marketing tools.

Mount Registrar Diane Morris was elected to the Board of Directors of the Association of Registrars of Universities and Colleges in Canada (ARUCC) at its annual meeting this summer. Morris also edits the national organization's newletter "Contact." Her term is for two years.

Dulcie Conrad, Director of Public Relations, Alumnae and Development was elected vice-president of the Association of Canadian University Information Bureaus (ACUIB) at the organization's annual meeting in Toronto. The meeting was held during the 1982 Council for Advancement and Support of Education International Assembly which attracted more than 1,000 public relations, alumnae and development professionals from all over the world. Conrad had been invited to moderate the session on "The Importance of Effective In-

Elderhostel

The Mount is among 500 universities, colleges and schools which offer special low-cost, short-term residential academic programs for senior citizens through the Elderhostel project.

This was the second year the university participated and co-ordinator Dr. Joyce Kennedy believes that its popularity will continue to grow.

Two groups of 40 people each attended this year. For a week each group lived on campus where they had their meals, attended lectures and social events. They also had time out for special tours and events in Halifax.

The courses offered were The Golden Age of Sailing with Neils Jannasch, curator of the Maritime Museum of the Atlantic: The Birth of the Novel with Dr. Olga Broomfield of the Mount's English Department; and High-Flying Culture Machines with Dr. Harold Oxley of the Public Relations faculty.

Many in the Elderhostel group appreciated the beauty and peace of the Mount campus. "It's a real pleasure to stay in such a lovely spot and the quality of the lectures is very high," many said.

Dr. Broomfield was one of a group of North American university professors to be featured in the Elderhostel Annual Report which will be published in the near future. A special writer/photographer was sent from the United States to interview some of the senior students while at the Moun

Playhouse Success Story

The Mount Playhouse — A team effort.

The success story of the Mount Playhouse dinner/theatre/cabaret is old news to anyone who was on campus all summer - but to those who have just returned it's worth repeating.

The six-week season of repertory theatre, music and dining was a sell-out after only two weeks. The Pub became the focal point for a wonderful amalgam of talent, high spirits, and good companionship and was probably one of the most successful efforts at getting the Mount's staff, faculty and tudents working on a joint enterprise ogether.

Many people have remarked that there were no "stars" in the Mount Playhouse

Up 30 Per Cent –

The Mount's two Summer School sessions broke all records for part-time student attendance - up 30 per cent right across the board, according to Associate Registrar Jean Hartley.

"There is no doubt that one of the big attractions is the Mount's graduate education program which brings in people from all over the Maritimes," she said.

Business programs seemed to be "the most popular" and the workshop offered for teachers of French brought in an additional 50 students.

Help For Part-Timers

Members of the Centre for Continuing Education and the Campus Association of Part-Time University Students (CAPUS) welcome returning and new students. They remind all students they are available for assistance. Counselling appointments can be made by contacting the Centre for Continuing Education, Rosaria 105, ext. 243/244.

During this first week of classes, over"esentatives of Continuing Education and CAPUS will have an information booth company — it was a team effort. But there were in fact two: Professor Renate Usmiani and Sister Margaret Young. Between them, they made it all possible.

The Mount Playhouse really captured the public's imagination and brought hundreds of people on campus. Many wanted to see all three plays but had to be content to have their names added to the four-page waiting list for cancellations.

Without a doubt there'll be a repeat season next summer and anyone who missed out this year would be wise to book their seats early for 1983. It's that popular! Believe us!

Summer Schools

Hartley said the large enrolment for the May-June session was more easily explained because it "is considered to be a continuation of the academic year" for many part-time students. However, the June-July session was just as well attended. What all this means, of course, is that the Mount campus continues to be just as active during the summer months (when most people think the university is lying idle) as it is in during the fall and winter months.

located in the front lobby of Seton, until 7:00 p.m. Stop by with your questions and pick up their brochures.

CAPUS also has a lounge in Seton Room 442. All part-time and mature students are invited to use the lounge and to attend the regular meetings of the Association. Times and dates of meetings are posted on the lounge door, at the Centre for Continuing Education, and on the daily bulletins around campus.

staff file

Mount Saint Vincent University Staff Association

This year, The Connection introduces a new column — Staff File — which will keep the university community informed of the concerns and activities of members of the Mount Saint Vincent University Staff Association. Send all contributions to association secretary, Carol Belliveau, Conference Office, Rosaria Centre, or call extension 364

Staff association executive members for 1982-83 are as follows: Brenda Joergensen, President (Continuing Education - Local 244); Deborah Cameron, Vice-President (Art Gallery - Local 160); Claire Farrell, Treasurer (Bookstore - Local 157); and Carol Belliveau, Secretary (Conference Office - Local 351). All are available for questions at any time so feel free to contact them.

The 1982-83 Mount Saint Vincent University Staff Association collective agreement was signed with university administrators late in August and copies will be distributed to the membership this month. Staff association president Brenda Joergensen said she was pleased with the way the meetings went this year which resulted in an excellent salary package and the inclusion of Easter Monday as a staff holiday.

The staff association's annual picnic was held this summer at Oakfield Park, Sackville, and while there was no big turn out, those who took in the event had a great time.

Since the last issue of The Connection April 19) there have been some changes: Paul Zwicker is a father for the first time; Bev Hanson has left Secretarial Services and also her position as treasurer of the staff association to stay home with her family; Claire Farrell of the Bookstore replaced Bev as treasurer; our award-winning Ashley Lohnes has left the audiovisual department; Colleen McCune of the Co-operative Education Office, who moved here recently from Montreal, replaces Janet Everest who is new Secretary to the Director of Student Services; and Sandra Hiltz has joined the staff of the Business Office. Good luck to all.

The next general meeting of the Staff Association will be 12 Noon, Wednesday, September 29, in the Seton Board Room At this time a financial report will be presented and any concerns or questions discussed. Try to be there. This is our year for improving internal communications We can make it work.

At The Art Gallery

"Mirrorings", an exhibition of work by 15 women artists from the Atlantic Provinces, will be officially opened at the Mount Art Gallery on September 17 by President E. Margaret Fulton.

Many of the artists will be present for the occasion and also guest curator Avis Lang Rosenberg, Vancouver-based art historian and critic.

The artists were chosen from more than 100 who responded to the invitation to submit their work.

Rosenberg describes "Mirrorings" as an exhibition of women seeing, knowing, narrating and describing themselves. The exhibits include paintings, photographs, films and fabric.

The exhibit will begin a year-long Canadian tour after leaving the Mount.

Running concurrently in the upstairs gallery is an exhibit of the dramatic and beautiful ceremonial silverware by master silversmith Lois Etherington Betteridge, R.C.A. Also, a number of special events have been planned at the Gallery including a presentation by Avis Lang Rosenberg on Sunday, September 19; a scene from "Don't Stir Me" - Marie Kelly's play about those bad Mount girls of the 1940's, on Wednesday, September 22; Sandy Greenberg in Concert on October 1; a film 'Right out of History: The Making of the Judy Chicago Dinner Party" on October 16: and the Eastern Shore Players on October 17.

Further details can be obtained from the Art Gallery.

Women To Air Concerns

A Task Force to investigate the problems | the workshop. and concerns of older women will be in Halifax September 24 and 25.

Organized by the Federal New Democratic Party Participation of Women Committee, the Task Force has already held hearings in British Columbia and Prince Edward Island. Hearings in all other Provinces and Territories will be held later this year.

Older women in the Province are invited to air their concerns in the form of briefs and presentations or by simply attending Pauline Jewett, MP for New Westminster-Coquitlam and Nova Scotia Leader, Alexa McDonough will be among the seven member Task Force Panel.

"Older women have been largely ignored by Government and society in general. The New Democratic Party knows these women have contributed greatly to the building of the Province and the country and should not face poverty and loneliness

Issues Challenge

The Debating Society has issued a challenge to the entire university community - especially faculty members - to enter into four exhibition debates during the academic year.

The debates will be held in Vinnie's Pub, Rosaria Centre.

"Those who have the nerve to accept this challenge can even choose their own topics...we'll be easy on them,'' says society president Jim Wentzell.

Plans to hold a one-day seminar at Seton Academic Centre for all new university debaters, including those from other Nova Scotia universities, have also been finalized

This will be held September 25 and Dalhousie University debating team president Brian Robertson, and University of Toronto senior debater, Steve Caughlin, will be participating. A series of workshops in their later years," said Barbara Levy, local Task Force Coordinator.

Friday afternoon will feature presentations of briefs by individuals and organizations. A full day workshop will take place on Saturday. Older women from throughout the Province are invited to participate.

"Submissions are also invited from persons unable to attend the sessions and should be sent to the Nova Scotia NDP Provincial Office, 1741 Barrington Street, P.O. Box 2391, Halifax," said Ms. Levy, who is Nova Scotia's representative on the Federal NDP Participation of Women Committee.

The hearings will be held at the Halifax North Branch Library, 2285 Gottingen Street, Halifax. The presentation of briefs on Friday will run from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the Saturday workshop will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Further information: NDP Provincial Office 423-9217.

Co-operative Education

A special party for all "veteran" co-op students will be held on Tuesday, September 21. Invitations are available at the Coop Office, Rosaria Centre.

The deadline for application for co-op for second-year and transfer students is September 24. Contact the Co-op Office for details and forms.

on rules, styles and delivery will be held during the morning session while a tournament on impromptu topics for new debaters will round out the afternoon activities.

Other plans for the year include two debating matches — one at Mount Allison University and the other at Dalhousie. The Mount will be sending new debaters to both.

Back by popular demand — "Don't Stir Me" running Sept. 24, 25 at 8 p.m.

"Don't Stir Me" Will Stir You

By popular request, Marie Kelly's perceptive and hilarious play "Don't Stir Me" will be repeated on Friday and Saturday, September 24 and 25 at 8 p.m. at Seton Academic Centre.

Anyone who attended Mount Saint Vincent Academy, will be taken back to the good (bad) old days when Mount girls tried their best to outwit the establishment. If you never attended the Academy, or any girls school for that matter, and wondered what it was like — now's your chance to find out! There's poetic licence for sure, but it all has a hard kernel of truth.

Faculty members, students and staff joined forces to present the play during Homecoming '82 and it was the talk of the day.

"Don't Stir Me" also played to a capacity house the night before Homecoming and many people were disappointed at missing it. Don't miss it this time around. Tickets $4 — and a special rate of $2 for students and senior citizens. Proceeds from the Friday night performance will go to Projecone: Futures for Women, so you'll be daing the university's fund raising effort a favour as well as yourself.

For those who don't know, Marie Kelly is our Purchasing Officer — but really a playwright in disguise — and an academy alumna.

If you're curious as to what it's all about, one scene from the play (just a teaser) will be presented 12 noon Wednesday, September 22, at the Art Gallery.

There will be an international university tournament at U of T on October 15 and the national university championships will be held early in November at the University of Victoria. Society members hope the Mount will be represented at each.

Depending on interest and support, society members would also like to see the Mount represented at the World Championships in New Zealand (January 25-31) and in matches at McGill, the Royal Military College and the University of Western Ontario later in the year.

Wentzell says he will be holding a meeting of all those interested in debating, early in the term. For further information, contact him through the Student Union office, Rosaria Centre.
