Mount Saint Vincent University, Halifax, Nova Scotia

Snowstorms

If you're wondering how bad the weather will have to get before classes are cancelled this winter, here's some information that will help to set you straight.

First of all, the University will close only in "the most adverse weather conditions" according to a memo sent around by Michael Merrigan, Executive Assistant to the President.

In the case of morning classes the Executive Assistant will be informed of weather conditions by the duty Security Officer by 6 a.m. He will then discuss the tuation with the President who will make the decision whether to cancel classes and close the University. The media will be informed and, hopefully, an announcement will be carried on all radio stations.

In the case of evening classes, the Academic Vice-President, after consultation with the President and the Deans, will make the decision to cancel classes, if necessary, by 4 p.m. The radio stations will then be notified of the decision.

Resident students please note: every effort will be made to keep the library open, even if the University is closed.

If an exam has to be cancelled because of a snowstorm, it will be rescheduled for Saturday, January 16.

On Campus News

Mount Saint Vincent University's admissions office has just sent off its own newsletter - "On Campus" - to more than 600 prospective students living in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince dward Island. High school counsellors nave also been included on the mailing

According to Admissions Officer Susan Tanner she's had the idea for some time. "It's a way of keeping in touch with those who have shown interest in our programs while we have been recruiting and also provides an opportunity to keep the many high school counsellors informed of our various campus activities.'

Tanner said she hopes to send the newsletter out several times a year. It's a simple format with a self-cover, one color and printed at the university's own print shop to minimize costs. Tanner and her staff collect the information, write the stories and type the final copy.

The Mount now has six newsletters which all serve different publics - BPR Bulletin, from the public relations department; Updates and Innovations, from the home economics department; Newsletter, from the co-operative education department; Research Bulletin, from the office of Research and Special Projects, and the university's own newsletter, The Connection, produced by the public relations, alumnae and development office.

Only the Research Bulletin and The Connection are circulated on campus. While each department is responsible for the content of its own newsletter, they are funneled through the public relations office to avoid duplication. Pertinent stories which would be of interest to the Mount community are gathered from these sources and published in The Connection.

alumnae update

A new theatre group, Mount Saint Vincent Alumnae Players, will be putting on an original Christmas play for children at the Mount on December 20.

Written by Marci Lin Melvin, "A Butterfly for Christmas" is a 45-minute fantasy about how butterflies celebrate Christmas on the planet Saturn. Author Melvin says, "Of course, not everyone realizes that Santa Claus was born on Saturn, which is why the play takes place Melvin says the new theatre group was formed recently "by a very enthusiastic group of alumnae who want to do several productions a year. Our next one is being planned for February.'

Melvin is producing, doing publicity, designing posters and making props for the production. Her interest in theatre goes back to when she studied dramatic art and literature at the Mount, where she took her major in English in 1978.

At present she is articling for the Attorney General after taking a Law degree at Dalhousie University this year.

"Law is really a second string to me," Melvin admits. "My first love is the theatre, and I feel there's a great need for more children's theatre.'

Knowing that a theatrical career can sometimes be difficult to achieve, Melvin says "I could be an entertainment lawyer if I don't make it on the stage, and that would still give me a connection with the theatre."

There will be two performances of "A Butterfly for Christmas" on Sunday, December 20, at 2:00 and 4:00 p.m. in Auditorium C, Seton Academic Centre. Tickets are available at the Art Gallery or at the door.

Help For Women

Domestic violence annually affects an estimated 500,000 Canadian women; one in 10 women who are married or share a relationship are battered by the men with whom they live.

Bryony House, operated by the Halifax Transition House Association, is a refuge for battered women and their children. It is a place for women in crisis to find a supportive atmosphere, together with counselling, referrals to appropriate agencies and information on housing, legal rights, social assistance, child care and other community resources.

used the residential services of Bryony House. Core funding is provided through a per diem cost-shared by the provincial and municipal governments. To meet the remaining portion of the budget, approximately $20,000 must be raised through private donations.

Your support is needed. Donations should be sent to Halifax Transition House Association, P.O. Box 3453 South, Halifax, N.S. B3J 3J1.

On this same note, the University of Western Ontario has begun a free evening van service to provide extra security for women at the university. The van make a circuit of campus parking lots buildings, operating between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. It can be signalled to stop by women anywhere along the route. The escort service, expected to cost the university about $20,000 annually, will be evaluated after its first year of operation.

Chère Francophone

française?

La Maison française du Mount Saint Vincent existe pour offrir, en plein milieu anglophone, l'occasion de vivre en français, avec des camarades de l'Acadie, du Quebec, de la France et d'autres coins du Monde français, et avec des anglophones desirant apprendre à parler français et a connaître la culture

La résidence meme est intime. On n'est que 16 dedans. Il y a une ambiance accueillante, chaleureuse, dynamique.

As tu pensé à Marillac, la maison | Toute étudiante qui habite Marillac est là parce qu'elle veut y être. On y fait sa propre cuisine, on s'y fait un petit monde.

Et ne crains pas d'y perdre ton anglais. Des que tu en sors, tu retrouves le monde anglophone autour de toi. Même à l'intérieur, il est possible d'échanger des connaissances — une heure d'anglais contre une heure d'aide en français.

Si cela t'interesse, passe donc voir Marillac. Puis pose ta candidature. Heather Sutherland, Housing Office, Rosaria Centre, extension 355.

Notes and Votes

The Canada Service Bureau has opened a walk-in enquiry centre at 1675 Barrington Street, to help Canadians find the right information within the Federal government.

The two client service officers, Karen MacDonald and Ted Lemoyre, are equipped to answer questions and put you in immediate contact with the appropriate department to provide you with the Federal programs and services you may need.

Operating hours are from 9-5 Monday through Friday. Telephone number is 426-8092.

No one can say that we're not democratic at the Mount! Now we're looking for a name for the Project One Cookbook - so get thinking and send in your ideas to the Connection. Neita Castle, co-ordinator for the cookbook, is also looking for more of your favorite recipes so why not share your most delectable delights with others and help to raise funds for Project One at the same time.

Board Report

The following is the report from the November 19 Board of Governors

- 1. The new Dalhousie University representatives appointed to the Board for 1981-82 are Dr. Lorraine Laurence and Dr. Chester B. Stewart.
- 2. The following are recommended for chairmanships effective July 1, 1982: Dr. Lillian Wainwright, Biology Department, further three-year term; Dr. Robert McDonald, Chemistry Department, three-year term; Dr. David Monaghan, English Department, further three-year term; Dr. Armand Morel, Modern Languages Department, three-year term; Dr. Larry Fisk, Subject representative for Political Studies Department, further three-year term; Dr. Erdener Kaynak, Business Administration Department, further three-year term; Dr. Fred Harrington, Psychology Department, threeyear term; and Dr. Sheva Medjuck, Sociology Department, additional oneyear term.

Mount Volleyball Team

Helen Folker, coach of the Mount Saint Vincent volleyball team, feels the strength of this year's squad lies mainly in ''its unity on the floor.''

This unity is provided by combining the strengths of returning and newcoming players on the team. Returning are Geralyn George, Nanette Elsinga, Betty MacDonell and Jacquie Melanson. New additions include Dyanne Shaw, Susyn Miller, Jackie Coyle, Margaret Glover, Lynn Frolic and Maria Jacobs.

The Nova Scotia College Conference champions last season, the Mount team hopes to capture the title once again this year. It will host the Provincial College championships in March 1982. The winner of this title will be eligible to attend the National Championships to be held in Calgary, Alberta.

The volleyball team must now start fund-raising activities to finance a possible trip to Alberta. Your help will be needed.

Library Open

The library will be open during the Christmas holidays on December 29 and 30 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. This should give anyone a chance to borrow material that they may want for holiday projects or return books no longer required.

Also, please note that random security checks will be made on library patrons which may cause a little inconvenience from time to time. A fund for this purpose has been provided by the Senior Administrative/Finance Committee and it's hoped that the experiment will be a deterrent effective enough to spare the university more costly methods of security. Library losses are not high at the Mount but do cause some disruption as books and periodicals are never quickly replaceable.

What's In A Name?

Apparently, quite a bit, as the University of Manitoba found out recently.

This fall the university's faculty of home economics changed its name to the faculty of human ecology, in an attempt to erase the ''unfavourable stereotype'' created by the old name.

First-year enrolment in the faculty promptly jumped almost 55 per cent, from 105 to 162 students and part-timenrolment increased to 26 students from four last year.

The name change also convinced nine men to enrol in the faculty, in which not one male student was registered last year.

The "phenomenal increase" is not solely because of the change of name, admits Robert Raeburn, director of university relations and information. The faculty has also changed its curriculum, allowing students to begin specializing in their first year in subjects such as nutrition or family studies.

Federal Appointment

Dulcie Conrad, Director of Public Relations, Alumnae and Development for Mount Saint Vincent University, has been invited by the Hon. Andrew Ouellet to serve as a member of the Stamp Advisory Committee of the Canada Post Corporation.

The Stamp Advisory Committee was created in 1969 in recognition of the importance of the image of Canada as corveyed by its postage stamps. Its purpose is to recommend subjects for the postage stamp program and to ensure aesthetic and philatelic excellence.

The committee's responsibility is to advise the Minister responsible for the Canada Post Corporation on the selection of subjects for stamp issues, the selection of artists and designers and to recommend finished artwork for stamp production.

Conrad, who has been with the Mount for two years, has an extensive background in fine arts having studied at both Mount Allison University and the Academy of Fine Arts, Rome, Italy.
